WHAT IS MISSION VIEJO?

The Mission Viejo community concept was born some ten years ago, in southern California. Within a natural setting of rolling hills and gentle valleys, the Mission Viejo Company and Philip Morris, Inc. joined forces to establish a development which would become a model of the American building industry.

Designed as a unique, totally planned, balanced community, Mission Viejo, Colorado, shall be complete with individual neighborhoods, outstanding recreational facilities, churches, schools, shopping centers, and abundant green belts and parks. Mission Viejo residents will identify with a personal neighborhood, which offers incomparable, family life styles, within an atmosphere of protected environment.

You can see it all taking shape now, at Hampden Avenue and Chambers Road. To watch a new town in the development stages, and to realize that which it is destined to become, is to experience a special feeling of pride, and an air of belonging.

Renderings and floor plans are not intended to show specific architectural details.
